

National Museum of the Royal Navy

Bradley and Connor, two students from our STEPs programme, our pathway to independence and employment, have been volunteering at the Historic Quay, National Museum of the Royal Navy Hartlepool. Today they have been awarded with a volunteer certificate in recognition of their hard work. The staff at the museum have been teaching our students some history as well as invaluable work skills.

We would like to thank everyone involved.