

Painting Like an Impressionist

Learners at Catcote Futures have been “Painting Like Impressionists”.

They researched impressionist painters and the techniques of each painter. They practiced these techniques by exploring dry brushing and pointerlist style to get an impression of a landscape or portrait.

Learners then looked at still life and attended a Still Life Workshop at Hartlepool Art Gallery, their work is due to be displayed some time this month, there will be a grand opening and these unique paintings will be available to buy by contacting the Art Gallery or Catcote Futures direct.
